Cash Position Good

James C. Stephenson, manager of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative, said today that President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget, reducing domestic spending, will not have any effect on the cooperative for at least two years. Johnson proposed that $402,000,000, appropriated by Congress for REA loans, be cut to $270,000,000.

A $600,000 loan to the Coop last summer is just beginning to be used. This will meet the organization's needs for two years.

Stephenson said that REA is trying to get the President to issue a directive to the budget bureau to release all funds appropriated by Congress for 1966.

"We are also trying to get Congress to immediately authorize a deficiency loan of $262,000,000 to reduce the loan backlog to manageable size on the national level," Stephenson said.

Next month there will be a national REA convention in Las Vegas, Nev. The cooperatives are going to try to organize a federal bank of electrical cooperatives so that they won't have to keep looking to the government for money.

Stephenson said that REA employment, unless President Johnson releases the funds, will drop. However, he said that he doesn't think that employment in Southeast Missouri will be affected.

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson said today the nation has achieved the ability to ward off recessions, hold booms in bounds and keep an American economic miracle going in 1966.

Johnson attached a condition to this glowing outlook: wage and price decisions by labor and business must be "sound and responsible--just as I am determined that public decisions will be fully responsible."

"If they are," the President said, "the American economic miracle will remain in 1966 the single most important force in the economic progress of mankind."

This was in an 8,000-word message he sent to Congress along with the annual report of his Council of Economic Advisers.

The report was a bit less exuberant in language than the message. But sprinkled through both were sentences and phrases of unvarnished optimism, qualified here and there with a word of restraint or caution.

The forecasts are for more business, more jobs, more profits, more spending and what Johnson called a "strong thrust of progress."

The President said: "Our nation's industries, shops and farms--our workers, owners of business, professional men and women--prosper today far beyond the dreams of any people, anytime, anywhere."

The President made some other points: "Recessions are not inevitable."

"We have learned how to achieve prosperity."

"Our prosperity does not depend on our military effort."

"Our defense needs are great, but our growth is far greater."

"In only seven other countries of the world is TOTAL output in a year as large as the INCREASE in our output last year."

"I am unwilling to declare a moratorium on our progress toward the Great Society."

"Expansion need not generate inflation."

Throughout the message and the economic report, nevertheless, there was repeated emphasis on holding the line against inflation.

Johnson told labor and industry, repeatedly and in various ways, that it is vitally important for them to follow guidelines set out by the three-man Council of Economic Advisers headed by Gardner Ackley.

Designed to keep wage and price increases within noninflationary limits, the guidelines are pegged to increased productivity. The council--and it gets some arguments on this--figures that increase at 3.2 percent a year.

It specifically recommends sticking to that percentage and holding all boosts within that boundary.

"Perhaps our most serious economic challenge in 1966," he told Congress, "will be to preserve the essential stability of costs and prices which has contributed significantly to our balanced progress."

New requirements of the war in Viet Nam make it more difficult to keep prices stable, the President said. Again he warned of possible tax increases rather than more reductions.

"We know that we do not need to put our growing economy into a straightjacket, or to throw it into a reverse. But the extent of the fiscal or monetary restraint that will be needed to avoid inflationary pressures will depend directly on the restraint and moderation exercised by those who have power over wages and prices."

On the general economic outlook, Congress got word that the gross national product -- the value of all the goods and services the country produces, should go up $46.5 billion this year. That would be just a shade short of the record $47 billion last year and would push the total to around $722 billion.

Again this year, spending on defense and on fixed investments of business -- plants and equipment -- is expected to be the main source of power for a continued economic surge.

BLOOMFIELD -- Joseph Kermit Bess, farmer and used car dealer was found dead in a roadside field, near his home three miles east of Bloomfield on route E, yesterday at 4:40 p.m.

He had been shot with a 12-gauge shotgun, lying near the body.

It was learned that he had borrowed the gun from a relative the day before to go rabbit hunting. The charge struck him in the abdomen.

Bess had crossed a small ditch leading to a gate in a field near his home. The ground was frozen, and it is believed he slipped and fell, causing the gun to discharge.

A coroner's inquest will be held to determine the cause of death.

Bess displayed used cars on his farm.

He was born near Swinton July 1, 1909, and was educated in the Stoddard county elementary schools and in College High school, Cape Girardeau.

On June 28, 1930, he married Sylvia Huggins, who survives.

Other survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Jo Nell Wilson, Jackson, Miss.; one son, Lt. Ray Dean Bess, Hamilton Air Base, near San Francisco, Calif.; his mother, Mrs. Dora Bess, Jackson; four brothers, Chester Bess, Dexter, Waldo Bess, Mountain Home, Ark.; Jack Bess, Puxco, and L. D. Bess, Bloomfield; five sisters, Mrs. Katie Hink, Fredericktown, Mrs. Bertha Brenner, Iowa Falls, Iowa, Mrs. Mayme Kinder, Jackson, Mrs. Mamie Clark, Peoria, Ill.; and Mrs. Dorothy Ann Deever, St. Louis.

The body is at the Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home.

Elks Vote To Acquire Cafe Building

Elks voted last night to purchase the Cyrus restaurant and Oak room from Lowell and Wendall Caskey for a lodge home.

The vote was 61 to 17. It required a two-thirds majority. The lodge is renting the south part of the Rustic Rock Inn. A move to the new quarters will be made April 1.

Fixtures in the Oak room were not purchased. Purchase price was $57,000.

Six members were initiated into the club last night: Neil Smith, Jack Edwards and Joe Lewis, all of Sikeston; Richard Riley, Blogett; William Davis, Jr., and Harry Giltz III, both of Charleston.

Three memberships were accepted from other Elks lodges: Dale White transferred his membership from Chaffee; Elbert Brown, Charleston and J. W. Shuffitt, Benton, transferred their membership from the Cairo lodge.

Taylor Calls For Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, a top adviser to President Johnson, says the reasons for continuing the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets are exhausted and "we must keep the pressure on."

His declaration was viewed as one of the strongest indications yet that the United States soon will resume its air strikes.

Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon who now is a presidential consultant on Viet Nam, was at the President's side Tuesday night during a top-level White House meeting with congressional leaders.

Less than 24 hours later, Taylor told a New York news conference that he felt the bombing pause was justified "in spite of the obvious military disadvantages."

"We have shown friends and foes the sincerity of our peaceful purposes," he said.

Wilson Majority May Be Reduced

HULL, England (AP) -- Voters cast their ballots in a special parliamentary election today that could reduce Prime Minister Harold Wilson's majority in the House of Commons to one vote, but the odds were running in Wilson's favor.

A public opinion poll by the Conservative Daily Mail predicted that Wilson's Labor party would get 48.9 per cent of the vote in the Hull electoral district and the Conservatives 40.7. It gave the tiny Liberal party 8.7 per cent and the three independent candidates 1.7.

U.S. Blamed For Death

MOSCOW (AP) -- Moscow Radio asserted today the U.S. Embassy had not exhausted all exchange possibilities in the case of Newcomb Mott and furnished the razor blade with which he cut his throat. The embassy called the account "a rather distorted version of the facts."

The broadcast said Mott, 27, received the razor blade in a package of personal effects from the embassy. An embassy spokesman retorted that the Russians still have not identified the instrument that made the fatal wound.

The embassy also showed irritation at the charge regarding bail and an exchange of prisoners. Mott, from Sheffield, Mass., died Jan. 20 on a Soviet train taking him from a Murmansk jail to a labor camp to complete an 18-month sentence for entering the Soviet Union illegally.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, January 27, 1770, London, England: Opening of Madam Koyg's Museum of Wax Elephants.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has sent to Congress a record high $113 billion budget. In all seriousness he says that the country is vigorous and prosperous and that it can handle the increasing costs of the war in Viet Nam and fulfill the expanding needs of his Great Society program without any general increase in taxation.

Maybe he can but the President is about the only person in the country who believes that it is possible.

There have been some hints that Johnson is so determined to present a liberal image and to keep Sen. Robert Kennedy under wraps that he refuses to express any conservative or middle-of-the road sentiment.

This is hogwash. There has been an effort throughout his political career to cast him in a middle-of-the-road or conservative role. Johnson always has been a liberal.

In acting on the budget, the only hope for the country's welfare lies with Congress.

There is some hokum in the Johnson approach. While it is true that his administration will raise a lot more money now by increasing the withholding rates of the nation's taxpayers this will produce a corresponding decline in the amount of money to be raised next year.

That type of thinking characterizes the Johnson administration.

The emphasis always is on today's needs rather than the long range best interests of the country.

Congress should not reject the Johnson program blindly but it should form an independent and reasoned judgment on every matter submitted for its consideration.

Much of the expansion of the Great Society should be stopped in its tracks.

This is not the time to expand it. It is a time to act cautiously about new programs. The time can better be spent in refining and improving the avalanche of new programs, which were passed by the last session of Congress.

This will permit the country to raise the necessary revenue to fight the escalating war in Viet Nam without overheating the economy.

Congress should not forget that the greatest danger of inflation comes not from rising consumer prices or even higher wages but from the federal government spending programs themselves. Congress in the past has been extremely careless in spending the taxpayers' money.

The Johnson administration has a horrible record in this respect. President Johnson should blush with embarrassment whenever he asks anyone not in government to use restraint in the effort to avoid inflation. Uncle Sam is the worst offender.

Congress at times has shown restraint.

The country must rely on the common sense and too rarely exercised judgment of its members to resist the efforts of the Johnson administration to send the nation hurtling over the cliffs of inflation.

There is no single person whose conduct made him look sillier after the New York transit strike than President Lyndon B. Johnson.

He advanced no recommendations for a settlement and issued no guidelines which the striking union was asked to follow.

As a result, the union asked for the moon and got more than half of it.

Johnson sent his secretary of labor, Willard Wirtz, to New York at the request of Mayor John Lindsay but Wirtz didn't stay long and accomplished nothing.

After the strike was over, Johnson weakly protested the settlement did not conform to his guidelines and that it was inflationary. He also announced that he wouldn't do anything about it other than to criticize Mayor Lindsay, the transit authority and, ever so mildly, the striking union.

Notably he did not call in the union leaders and ask that they hold the settlement in abeyance until after they had counseled with federal authorities. Naturally not. He has one policy for the unions and another for management and the rest of the American people.

The counseling is reserved for industrialists, such as those in the aluminum industry, who he induced to back off from a price increase after they had announced it.

In the great Society the arrogant union czars, who thumb their noses at society, are given favored treatment while management, consumers and all the rest of the people are told to toe the mark or accept the consequences of all the bad things that the federal government can throw at them and to endure all the arm twisting for which the Texan in the White House is noted.

Well we see in the papers that our good old rubber stamp Senator Ed Long is willing to follow anything that the President says or thinks.

Ed says he will go along with the President on 4 year terms for the congressmen as well as repeal of 14B or anything else Johnson dreams up.

FALLACY

"The so-called Right To Work laws deny American trade unions their right to gain union security through the collective bargaining process."

FACTS

"The very term 'union security' which is given to a union shop agreement shows that it is the union and not the individual that gets the 'security'. Monopoly power may give to labor managers a feeling of 'union security' but it should give no feeling of 'job security' to the workers. Whoever before claimed that a monopoly gave 'security' to those forced to let monopoly rule their lives? Those dependent upon the arbitrary power of someone else to bless or curse them are always most insecure."

Shortly before his untimely death in London, Adlai Stevenson said: "Aggression begets aggression. Retreat begets retreat. We either stand, as we discovered in Europe, and hold the line at appropriate places or we don't. And if we don't and aggression succeeds, they knock on door after door and find that they open. Ultimately they come to the ultimate door where resistance becomes imperative. Then you have a holocaust. You have a major war. This is what we are trying desperately to avoid in South Viet Nam."

Asked about his boss, the truck driver replied: "He's a self-made man and the worst example of unskilled labor."

News is so much in the center of every controversy and there have been many irrational viewpoints expressed about it.

Many do-gooders start automatically from the premise that any effect of the news on human beings is bound to be base. Grave after effects are read into news coverage and presentation.

The informative aspects often are overlooked. So are the consequences from a lack of information.

Newspapers supply the intelligence by which many persons lead fuller, broader and more profitable lives. News is the staff of life to the human mind. Modern man would suffer and his brain would shrivel from the lack of it. Much of the guidance needed for modern living would be gone because we learn from the example, the experience and the thoughts of others. News is intelligence.

In Camden, N. J., defense attorneys in a murder case used the critical approach to news that is so hackneyed and so familiar in an unsuccessful effort to obtain a change of venue.

To support the effort they resorted to marketing tools of research and survey. The survey showed that 93 per cent of the people interviewed had heard of the slaying; 63 per cent thought that the killing had occurred during a robbery and 72 per cent had heard or read of the case five times or more.

All this proved, the defense attorneys argued, that news stories had "filled the minds of people with prejudice."

The judge thought otherwise:

"The mere fact that people are informed is no determination that this case cannot be tried here (Camden county) and there is no reason to believe that the newspaper articles have caused people to make a determination of the defendants' guilt or innocence."

"Saturation of homes with news is a part of the era in which we live. With it comes enlightenment for the people to make a better judgment of the events of the day. The mere fact that people are informed cannot be construed to mean that they cannot make a fair or impartial determination of the guilt or innocence of anyone accused of a crime."

NEW YORK AP -- It is time we had another double-talk drill.

One can get in shape for playing baseball by a few weeks of intensive training. But double-talk is a demanding skill, one that must be exercised constantly. Otherwise you might slip and start saying what you do really think. And what will that get you -- except possibly a bloody nose?

Double-talk, as we have pointed out, is the conversational -- save that keeps the human social order from rubbing itself raw.

For the uninitiated, here are a few typical examples of double-talk -- with the literal translations:

"Sorry, only one to a customer." Even we don't have the heart to unload more than one of these on you.

"Frankly, I don't like beads on most men, but on you, well--" "Anything that hides even part of your face is an improvement."

"No, never mind pouring me another martini. I think I'll have a glass of water instead."

This guy must make his own cheap gin. No liquor store could sell it and stay in business.

"Let me take the matter under advisement until such time as I can give it the full attention I know it deserves." I can't make heads or tails of it.

"Well, of course, if you insist on doing it your way--" I'll be too busy to attend your funeral.

"Congratulations, Roscoe. This is the third month in a row you've led your department in putting new ideas in the office suggestion box."

"When are you going to buckle down and start doing the work you're being paid to do."

"You have paid me a great honor, Horace, but I don't feel like I am ready yet to settle down and get married at--" At my age on your measly salary.

"If you ever get promoted, you know where I live."

"You understand I don't give out my phone number to just anybody." Only to anybody who asks for it.

"This offer is good for only a limited time." From now until eternity.

"I thought that was you I saw." But I was hoping I could slip by without you seeing me.

"Please let me help you on with your coat." Anything to get you on your way.

"I don't know when I ever had a meal like that!" Oh, yes, now I remember. It was when I was studying sociology in college, and the entire class ate at the state penitentiary.

"If you ever need a friend, just call on--" Someone besides me.

Calcium chloride will not harm good quality, air entrained concrete. This concrete contains millions of tiny air bubbles that give it room to contract and expand without "breaking." Don't use calcium chloride, or any other de-icer, on concrete that is not of good quality and properly air entrained, unless it has been given a protective coating of linseed oil or other material. Asphalt driveway and parking lots are not harmed in any way by calcium chloride.

A preacher coming into a new location was invited to join one of the civic luncheon clubs. In introducing him, the speaker facetiously said they were electing him to be the "chief hog caller" for the club.

In responding, the preacher said, "Gentlemen, I certainly appreciate the very great honor you have conferred upon me. When I came to this community, I had expected to be shepherd of a flock; but of course you know your crowd better than I do."

"Where'd they ever get that crack about all the world loves a lover?"

"Why not? He never takes the crowded parking spaces."

OBSTRUCTION JUSTICE Like most Americans, we would like to see all criminals brought to justice; especially willful murderers. The more so in the case of whoever killed Mrs. Viola Luzzo during recent racial disorders in Alabama. For there is great likelihood in such instances that the killers are working hand-in-glove with other agitators, elements, even though they appear to be on opposite sides of the issue.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The laconic White House statement that the United States had made a direct peace proposal to North Viet Nam started the diplomats guessing and raised a storm in Saigon.

This was the inside reason why Secretary of State Rusk made his sudden trip to South Viet Nam to soothe Premier Ky's boiling indignation.

This column can now reveal what the direct approach was. It took the form of a letter, dated Dec. 29, which the American embassy in Rangoon, Burma, delivered through diplomatic channels to the North Vietnamese embassy in Rangoon.

Arrangements for this direct contact were made through Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations, a Burmese, and by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the recently visited leader, who recently visited Rangoon in a Senate survey of foreign policy. U Thant had been one of the earliest peace promoters and had reported in the summer of 1964 that he had the North Vietnamese willing to negotiate. Sen. Mansfield has been an administration leader who felt that President Johnson inherited a bad situation in the first place and should have moved for peace immediately after his reelection.

News of the highly secret contact was made by Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers in disputing the statement by Yale professor Staughton Lynd that no direct approach had ever been made by the United States to North Viet Nam.

At this writing no reply has been received.

Note: Secretary of State Rusk was not as successful as the official communique indicated in calming Premier Ky and other South Viet Nam officials. Premier Ky was still grousing when Rusk left. Ky's position cannot go to the conference table as long as the Viet Cong controls around 1,600 villages and the South Viet Nam government only 700. To hold an election with two-thirds of the nation under Communist control, Premier Ky claims, would be political suicide.

DOVES VS. HAWKS Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a former professor of history at Dakota Wesleyan University, delivered a significant Senate speech on bombing North Viet Nam--a subject which he as a World War II bomber pilot knows something about.

The speech was calculated to bolster President Johnson in one of the most important back-stage bird fights LBJ is facing.

McGovern knew that in this bird fight the President was being pressured by the War Hawks to resume bombing North Viet Nam immediately.

The Hawks include: Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William Westmoreland in Saigon, who know all about Indo-China but not about the rest of Asia; such southern congressmen as Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who is an expert on putting his son on the poverty payroll but knows little about foreign affairs; and such GOP friends as Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, who is an expert Senate floor fighter but not a profound student of peace.

McGovern also knew the President was being urged by the Doves to continue the bombing holiday. The Doves include: President De Gaulle, who knows Indo-China from eight years of French disaster there; Premier Sato of Japan, who has great influence among Asian nations; President Tito of Yugoslavia, who knows Ho Chi-Minh well; Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England and Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada, who are sincere friends of the USA.

Having talked with some of these Doves, Sen. McGovern warned: "These concerned governments who have placed their confidence in us, now need time -- perhaps many months of time -- to convince Hanoi that a satisfactory settlement can be achieved with the United States. If we were to resume bombing now or in the near future, this would be a staggering blow to our presently favorable position with the government whose help we have asked in the search for peace."

"Agents provocateur" is the high-falutin' term for that kind of double-dealing activity; and a number of persons who figured prominently in the recent Alabama disturbances are unquestionably well-schooled in its use. It is typical of such provocateurs' work that their victim will be someone other than a key figure in the agitational activity on the other side of the issue.

From such facts as can be gleaned from emotion-packed reports on the case it does appear that the accused, Mr. Wilkins, was in fact the slayer of Mrs. Luzzo. But before many of those facts were made public, strident voices were calling for quick conviction and blaming all the people of Alabama for the actions of one or a few individuals. Now that the first trial has ended with a hung jury, more abuse is being heaped upon the people and the state of Alabama by some of the very same voices which, by their very own emotionalism and impatience, largely obstructed due process and proper procedure in this case.

If the case against Wilkins was as airtight as some commentators would have us believe, why were they not satisfied to await the action of court and jury, instead of delivering what was in effect an ultimatum to the people and State of Alabama to convict at once or be themselves condemned?

CHINA CHIDES

"These governments are being bitterly chided by Red China, which is telling them that the bombing pause is just a lull before we hit even harder. Let us not play into the hands of the Chinese Communists and undercut our friends by resuming the bombing as China insists we are about to do."

As a former bomber pilot, McGovern also made these points:

1. "We have suffered a heavy loss of skilled pilots and costly bombers over North Viet Nam. In one instance we lost three highly trained pilots and three expensive bombers trying to knock out a little bridge."

2. "Bombing attacks infuriate and unite a people behind their government in rigid resistance to the attackers."

3. "The bombing attacks have been largely ineffective. They were designed to stop the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers into the South, but Secretary McNamara now says there are several times as many North Vietnamese in the south as when we started bombing last February."

"Patience is cheaper than blood," concluded the former bomber pilot from South Dakota, "and an honorable peace is better than the length of the daily body count."

THE POPE'S BLESSING

When Rep. Herbert Tenzer, D-N.Y., with his friend, Jack Holland of Lawrence, Long Island, and their wives were introduced to Pope Paul during a recent private audience, Tenzer, an orthodox Jew, remarked: "We are four Americans of the Jewish faith who have come to pay our respects."

"We thank you for your visit," greeted the Pope.

"Your Holiness, we thank you for your visit to the United States and for your warm welcome here in Rome. Perhaps you would be interested to know that we are orthodox."

The Pope blessed Tenzer's hand in both of his.

"My son," he said, "we bless you on your journey and for being orthodox."

And why no similar outrage from those same sources against the prosecution's star witness, Mr. Rowe, who is quite as certainly an accessory to the crime as Wilkins may be guilty of it?

No matter that these strident demands for quick conviction were made in sophisticated language, through the remote media of newspapers and TV networks, they are no more in keeping with the American concept of justice than the cry of a lynch mob in the street outside a jail.

Then Unk might tell em what things was like when he run all over wid his money bag. Yept, that might be a good time fur Unk to mention he can see the bottom of that bag too.

H. L. Hunt Says

A NATION CALLED GUYANA Although the Latin American country of British Guiana is still bitterly divided, Britain's Labor government has announced independence will be granted next May 26. British Guiana will then become a sovereign state--eligible for membership in the UN -- under the name of Guyana.

The colony has shown no evidence that it is capable of maintaining internal order and practicing effective self-government.

Cheddi Jagan, former premier and an avowed Marxist, and his wife, the former Janet Rosenberg of Chicago, still head the People's Progressive Party. This pro-Castro party is composed almost exclusively of British Guiana's East Indians. These constitute about 48 per cent of the colony's population of around 550,000. The balance of the population is made up of Negroes and a conglomerate group of whites and people of mixed blood.

At the present time, British Guiana is governed by an anti-Jagan coalition headed by Forbes Burnham, a Negro. The East Indians under Jagan and the Negroes under Burnham are at sword's point.

Independence is fine when people are ready for it, but in this Latin American country there is a fearful possibility that independence may unleash violence between the races on a scale much greater than that experienced in the colony not many months ago.

Nothing could better serve the cause of Castroism in the Americas. It is significant that Cheddi Jagan boycotted the London talks that led to the decision of independence. He will not give up easily. The London talks did not eliminate the racial and economic tension in British Guiana. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside Story of Hoffa's Maneuvers to 'Expose' U.S. Justice Dept.

Washington, D. C.: -- Some years ago Jimmy Hoffa sprinted swiftly up the hot sands of Miami Beach. There was no one in pursuit.

He was racing from a rumor. A doctor had been called into his posh hotel suite, and the boys began whispering about a heart attack. So Jimmy H. did some beach work to prove he was in good shape and disprove a rumor.

But in recent years the iron man's innards have developed a little rust. Quietly he slipped in and out of Georgetown University Hospital. Stealthily he consulted doctors and heeded them far more than he did his lawyers.

But the other day the terrible - tempered Teamsters' chief's ulcers betrayed him on the inside as he fears every man will on the outside. There was massive bleeding, it was reported. But why now?

Virtually all of Hoffa's counter - offensives against the government have failed.

Hoffa, doing what comes naturally, had gone for the jugular. He has not counted heavily on the appeals court or even the Supreme bench to keep him free of prison terms stretching into 13 years. With the imagination and the abundance of daring which could have made him the world's powerful labor leader, Hoffa long ago decided to smash the opposition at its source -- right inside the Justice Dept.

Little of this behind - reached campaign has reached the public. Methodically, Hoffa pressured Congressmen into calling for a probe of the attorney General and the Department itself.

Considerable sums were spent through the Teamsters' political machine. Documents were prepared, massive "evidence" was compiled, Material which would have taken any Congressional office months to gather was packaged and put in the hands of House members friendly to the Teamsters.

Some 25 Congressmen were lined up for the offensive. At this writing, 13 of them publicly have attacked the Justice Dept.

Almost all of them zeroed in on the Department's use of a big, tough, muscled Teamster with a grim sheet (record) in the police files of his home city, Baton Rouge, La. He is Ed Partin. His background would delight a criminologist's study in the psychiatry of violence.

Hoffa, of course, had been intimately aware of Partin's character when he had summoned the Baton Rouge Teamsters' official to his side during the Chattanooga jury-tampering trial.

But Partin double-crossed him and testified for the government.

As every District Attorney knows, the use of such men as Partin is standard operating procedure for prosecution wherever it is fortunate enough to penetrate the defendant's camp.

But along came Congressmen from New York, Ohio, Pa., and Texas, amongst other states, and blasted the Justice Dept. In the lead was Rep. Kenneth Gray of Illinois. He denounced the Justice Dept. for making a deal. He was followed by other sons who used his long analysis. They resorted to such words as "bribe", throwing a "protective cloak" over a criminal, "tender solicitude," etc.

They demanded an investigation of the Justice Dept.

From the indignation of the Congressional friends of Hoffa, one would have thought that Betsy Ross' gray head and star-studded creation had been desecrated. Hoffa did think he would have the entire case reworked by a Congressional committee under TV lights and the coverage by hundreds of newsmen.

All this as the Supreme Court and the appeals benches were considering his bids.

He was elated when he learned there would be an investigation of the Justice Dept. by the House Judiciary Committee.

But then he got word -- which was confirmed by this column -- that the probe would go into the "civil liberties front."

"It could some day reach into the Hoffa case," said Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler. "But until his appeals have been definitely concluded, I won't touch the case with a hundred-foot pole."

As for the Congressmen, they've lost their enthusiasm, too.

"Some Teamster locals in my district brought the matter to my attention," Rep. Gray told this newsmen. "I did my duty as a citizen. I reported the matter to the Congress. Now I'm finished with it. I don't intend to do another thing about it."

"It's not my responsibility to ride herd on the Justice Dept. I am too busy. My other committee is planning a permanent home for the Vice President. So you see I can't follow the Hoffa thing through, nor do I intend to do anything more about it."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, January 27, 1770, London, England: Opening of Madam Koyg's Museum of Wax Elephants.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has sent to Congress a record high $113 billion budget. In all seriousness he says that the country is vigorous and prosperous and that it can handle the increasing costs of the war in Viet Nam and fulfill the expanding needs of his Great Society program without any general increase in taxation.

Maybe he can but the President is about the only person in the country who believes that it is possible.

There have been some hints that Johnson is so determined to present a liberal image and to keep Sen. Robert Kennedy under wraps that he refuses to express any conservative or middle-of-the road sentiment.

This is hogwash. There has been an effort throughout his political career to cast him in a middle-of-the-road or conservative role. Johnson always has been a liberal.

In acting on the budget, the only hope for the country's welfare lies with Congress.

There is some hokum in the Johnson approach. While it is true that his administration will raise a lot more money now by increasing the withholding rates of the nation's taxpayers this will produce a corresponding decline in the amount of money to be raised next year.

That type of thinking characterizes the Johnson administration.

The emphasis always is on today's needs rather than the long range best interests of the country.

Congress should not reject the Johnson program blindly but it should form an independent and reasoned judgment on every matter submitted for its consideration.

Much of the expansion of the Great Society should be stopped in its tracks.

This is not the time to expand it. It is a time to act cautiously about new programs. The time can better be spent in refining and improving the avalanche of new programs, which were passed by the last session of Congress.

This will permit the country to raise the necessary revenue to fight the escalating war in Viet Nam without overheating the economy.

Congress should not forget that the greatest danger of inflation comes not from rising consumer prices or even higher wages but from the federal government spending programs themselves. Congress in the past has been extremely careless in spending the taxpayers' money.

The Johnson administration has a horrible record in this respect. President Johnson should blush with embarrassment whenever he asks anyone not in government to use restraint in the effort to avoid inflation. Uncle Sam is the worst offender.

Congress at times has shown restraint.

The country must rely on the common sense and too rarely exercised judgment of its members to resist the efforts of the Johnson administration to send the nation hurling over the cliffs of inflation.

There is no single person whose conduct made him look sillier after the New York transit strike than President Lyndon B. Johnson.

He advanced no recommendations for a settlement and issued no guidelines which the striking union was asked to follow.

As a result, the union asked for the moon and got more than half of it.

Johnson sent his secretary of labor, Willard Wirtz, to New York at the request of Mayor John Lindsay but Wirtz didn't stay long and accomplished nothing.

After the strike was over, Johnson weakly protested the settlement did not conform to his guidelines and that it was inflationary. He also announced that he wouldn't do anything about it other than to criticize Mayor Lindsay, the transit authority and, ever so mildly, the striking union.

Notably he did not call in the union leaders and ask that they hold the settlement in abeyance until after they had counseled with federal authorities. Naturally not. He has one policy for the unions and another for management and the rest of the American people.

The counseling is reserved for industrialists, such as those in the aluminum industry, who he induced to back off from a price increase after they had announced it.

In the great Society the arrogant union czars, who thumb their noses at society, are given favored treatment while management, consumers and all the rest of the people are told to toe the mark or accept the consequences of all the bad things that the federal government can throw at them and to endure all the arm twisting for which the Texan in the White House is noted.

FALLACY

"The so-called Right To Work laws deny American trade unions their right to gain union security through the collective bargaining process."

FACTS

"The very term 'union security' which is given to a union shop agreement shows that it is the union and not the individual that gets the 'security'. Monopoly power may give to labor managers a feeling of 'union security' but it should give no feeling of 'job security' to the workers. Whoever before claimed that a monopoly gave 'security' to those forced to let monopoly rule their lives? Those dependent upon the arbitrary power of someone else to bless or curse them are always most insecure."

Shortly before his untimely death in London, Adlai Stevenson said: "Aggression begets aggression. Retreat begets retreat. We either stand, as we discovered in Europe, and hold the line at appropriate places or we don't. And if we don't and aggression succeeds, they knock on door after door and find that they open. Ultimately they come to the ultimate door where resistance becomes imperative. Then you have a holocaust. You have a major war. This is what we are trying desperately to avoid in South Viet Nam."

News is so much in the center of every controversy and there have been many irrational viewpoints expressed about it.

Many do-gooders start automatically from the premise that any effect of the news on human beings is bound to be base. Grave after effects are read into news coverage and presentation.

The informative aspects often are overlooked. So are the consequences from a lack of information.

Newspapers supply the intelligence by which many persons lead fuller, broader and more profitable lives. News is the staff of life to the human mind. Modern man would suffer and his brain would shrivel from the lack of it. Much of the guidance needed for modern living would be gone because we learn from the example, the experience and the thoughts of others. News is intelligence.

In Camden, N. J., defense attorneys in a murder case used the critical approach to news that is so hackneyed and so familiar in an unsuccessful effort to obtain a change of venue.

To support the effort they resorted to marketing tools of research and survey.

The survey showed that 93 per cent of the people interviewed had heard of the slaying; 63 per cent thought that the killing had occurred during a robbery and 72 per cent had heard or read of the case five times or more.

All this proved, the defense attorneys argued, that news stories had "filled the minds of people with prejudice."

The judge thought otherwise:

"The mere fact that people are informed is no determination that this case cannot be tried here (Camden county) and there is no reason to believe that the newspaper articles have caused people to make a determination of the defendants' guilt or innocence."

"Saturation of homes with news is a part of the era in which we live. With it comes enlightenment for the people to make a better judgment of the events of the day. The mere fact that people are informed cannot be construed to mean that they cannot make a fair or impartial determination of the guilt or innocence of anyone accused of a crime."

NEW YORK AP -- It is time we had another double-talk drill.

One can get in shape for playing baseball by a few weeks of intensive training. But double-talk is a demanding skill, one that must be exercised constantly. Otherwise you might slip and start saying what you do really think. And what will that get you -- except possibly a bloody nose?

Double-talk, as we have pointed out, is the conversational salve that keeps the human social order from rubbing itself raw.

For the uninitiated, here are a few typical examples of double-talk -- with the literal translations:

"Sorry, only one to a customer." Even we don't have the heart to unload more than one of these on you.

"Frankly, I don't like beads on most men, but I don't feel slip by without you seeing me." "Anything that hides even part of your face is an improvement."

"No, never mind pouring me another martini. I think I'll have a glass of water instead." This guy must make his own cheap gin. No liquor store could sell it and stay in business.

"Let me take the matter under advisement until such time as I can give it the full attention I know it deserves." I can't make heads or tails of it.

"Well, of course, if you insist on doing it your way..." I'll be too busy to attend your funeral.

"Congratulations, Roscoe. This is the third month in a row you've led your department in putting new ideas in the office suggestion box." When are you going to buckle down and start doing the work you're being paid to do.

"You have paid me a great honor, Horace, but I don't feel like I am ready yet to settle down and get married at--" At my age on your measly salary. But if you ever get promoted, you know where I live.

"You understand I don't give out my phone number to just anybody." Only to anybody who asks for it.

"This offer is good for only a limited time." From now until eternity.

"I thought that was you I saw." But I was hoping I could slip by without you seeing me. "Please let me help you on with your coat." Anything to get you on your way.

"I don't know when I ever had a meal like that!" Oh, yes, now I remember. It was when I was studying sociology in college, and the entire class ate at the state penitentiary.

"If you ever need a friend, just call on--" Someone besides me.

"Remember, I've Just Had an Operation!"

A preacher coming into a new location was invited to join one of the civic luncheon clubs. In introducing him, the speaker facetiously said they were electing him to be the "chief hog caller" for the club.

In responding, the preacher said, "Gentlemen, I certainly appreciate the very great honor you have conferred upon me. When I came to this community, I had expected to be shepherd of a flock; but of course you know your crowd better than I do."

"Where'd they ever get that crack about all the world loves a lover?"

"Why not? He never takes the crowded parking spaces."

OBSTRUCTION JUSTICE Like most Americans, we would like to see all criminals brought to justice; especially willful murderers. The more so in the case of whoever killed Mrs. Viola Luzzo during recent racial disorders in Alabama. For there is great likelihood in such instances that the killers are working hand-in-glove with otheragitationalelements, even though they appear to be on opposite sides of the issue.

"Agents provocateur" is the high-falutin' term for that kind of double-dealing activity; and a number of persons who figured prominently in the recent Alabama disturbances are unquestionably well-schooled in its use. It is typical of such provocateurs' work that their victim will be someone other than a key figure in the agitational activity on the other side of the issue.

From such facts as can be gleaned from emotion-packed reports on the case it does appear that the accused, Mr. Wilkins, was in fact the slayer of Mrs. Luzzo. But before many of those facts were made public, strident voices were calling for quick conviction and blaming all the people of Alabama for the actions of one or a few individuals. Now that the first trial has ended with a hung jury, more abuse is being heaped upon the people and the state of Alabama by some of the very same voices which, by their very own emotionalism and impatience, largely obstructed due process and proper procedure in this case.

If the case against Wilkins was as airtight as some commentators would have us believe, why were they not satisfied to await the action of court and jury, instead of delivering what was in effect an ultimatum to the people and State of Alabama to convict at once or be themselves condemned?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The laconic White House statement that the United States had made a direct peace proposal to North Viet Nam started the diplomats guessing and raised a storm in Saigon.

This was the inside reason why Secretary of State Rusk made his sudden trip to South Viet Nam to soothe Premier Ky's boiling indignation.

This column can now reveal what the direct approach was. It took the form of a letter, dated Dec. 29, which the American embassy in Rangoon, Burma, delivered through diplomatic channels to the North Vietnamese embassy in Rangoon.

Arrangements for this direct contact were made through Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations, a Burmese, and by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader, who recently visited Rangoon on a Senate survey of foreign policy. U Thant had been one of the earliest peace promoters and had reported in the summer of 1964 that he had the North Vietnamese willing to negotiate. Sen. Mansfield has been an administration leader who felt that President Johnson inherited a bad situation in the first place and should have moved for peace immediately after his reelection.

News of the highly secret contact was made by Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers in disputing the statement by Yale professor Staughton Lynd that no direct approach had ever been made by the United States to North Viet Nam.

At this writing no reply has been received.

Note: Secretary of State Rusk was not as successful as the official communique indicated in calming Premier Ky and other South Viet Nam officials. Premier Ky was still grousing when Rusk left. Ky's position has been that South Viet Nam cannot go to the conference table as long as the Viet Cong controls around 1,600 villages and the South Viet Nam government only 700. To hold an election with two-thirds of the nation under Communist control, Premier Ky claims, would be political suicide.

DOVES VS. HAWKS Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a former professor of history at Dakota Wesleyan University, delivered a significant Senate speech on bombing North Viet Nam--a subject which he as a World War II bomber pilot knows something about.

The speech was calculated to bolster President Johnson in one of the most important backstage bird fights LBJ is facing. McGovern knew that in this bird fight the President was being pressured by the War Hawks to resume bombing North Viet Nam immediately.

The Hawks include: Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William Westmoreland in Saigon, who know all about Indo-China but not about the rest of Asia; such southern congressmen as Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who is an expert on putting his son on the poverty payroll but knows little about foreign affairs; and such GOP friends as Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, who is an expert Senate floor fighter but not a profound student of peace.

McGovern also knew the President was being urged by the Doves to continue the bombing holiday. The Doves include: President De Gaulle, who knows Indo-China from eight years of French disaster there; Premier Sato of Japan, who has great influence among Asian nations; President Tito of Yugoslavia, who knows Ho Chi-Minh well; Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England and Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada, who are sincere friends of the USA.

Having talked with some of these Doves, Sen. McGovern warned: "These concerned governments who have placed their confidence in us, now need time --to convince Hanoi that a satisfactory settlement can be achieved with the United States. If we were to resume bombing now or in the near future, this would be a staggering blow to our presently favorable position with the government whose help we have asked in the search for peace."

CHINA CHIDES "These governments are being bitterly chided by Red China, which is telling them that the bombing pause is just a lull before we hit even harder. Let us not play into the hands of the Chinese Communists and undercut our friends by resuming the bombing as China insists we are about to do."

As a former bomber pilot, McGovern also made these points:

1. "We have suffered a heavy loss of skilled pilots and costly bombers over North Viet Nam. In one instance we lost three highly trained pilots and three expensive bombers trying to knock out a little bridge."

2. "Bombing attacks infuriate and unite a people behind their government in rigid resistance to the attackers."

3. "The bombing attacks have been largely ineffective. They were designed to stop the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers into the South, but Secretary McNamara now says there are several times as many North Vietnamese in the south as when we started bombing last February."

"Patience is cheaper than blood," concluded the former bomber pilot from South Dakota, "and an honorable peace is better than the length of the daily body count."

THE POPE'S BLESSING

When Rep. Herbert Tenzer, D-N.Y., with his friend, Jack Holland of Lawrence, Long Island, and their wives were introduced to Pope Paul during a recent private audience, Tenzer, an orthodox Jew, remarked: "We are four Americans of the Jewish faith who have come to pay our respects."

"We thank you for your visit," greeted the Pope.

"Your Holiness, we thank you for your visit to the United States and for your warm welcome here in Rome. Perhaps you would be interested to know that we are orthodox."

The Pope clasped Tenzer's hand in both of his. "My son," he said, "we bless you on your journey and for being orthodox."

And why no similar outrage from those same sources against the prosecution's star witness, Mr. Rowe, who is quite as certainly an accessory to the crime as Wilkins may be guilty of it?

No matter that these strident demands for quick conviction were made in sophisticated language, through the remote media of newspapers and TV networks, they are no more in keeping with the American concept of justice than the cry of a lynch mob in the street outside a jail.

Ethiopian Airlines reports that statistics for 70 cities around the world show that Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, has the lowest average humidity for the month of December. Its figure of 48 per cent even beats that of the well-known humidity haven, Phoenix, Ariz., which is 53 per cent.

A NATION CALLED GUYANA Although the Latin American country of British Guiana is still bitterly divided, Britain's Labor government has announced independence will be granted next May 26. British Guiana will then become a sovereign state--eligible for membership in the UN--under the name of Guyana.

The colony has shown no evidence that it is capable of maintaining internal order and practicing effective self-government.

Cheddi Jagan, former premier and an avowed Marxist, and his wife, the former Janet Rosenberg of Chicago, still head the People's Progressive Party. This pro-Castro party is composed almost exclusively of British Guiana's East Indians. These constitute about 48 per cent of the colony's population of around 550,000. The balance of the population is made up of Negroes and a conglomerate group of whites and people of mixed blood.

At the present time, British Guiana is governed by an anti-Jagan coalition headed by Forbes Burnham, a Negro. The East Indians under Jagan and the Negroes under Burnham are at sword's point.

Independence is fine when people are ready for it, but in this Latin American country there is a fearful possibility that independence may unleash violence between the races on a scale much greater than that experienced in the colony not many months ago.

Nothing could better serve the cause of Castroism in the Americas. It is significant that Cheddi Jagan boycotted the London talks that led to the decision of independence. He will not give up easily. The London talks did not eliminate the racial and economic tension in British Guiana. HLH

By Victor Riesel

Inside Story of Hoffa's Maneuvers to 'Expose' U.S. Justice Dept.

Washington, D. C.: -- Some years ago Jimmy Hoffa sprinted swiftly up the hot sands of Miami Beach. There was no one in pursuit.

He was racing from a rumor. A doctor had been called into his posh hotel suite, and the boys began whispering about a heart attack. So Jimmy H. did some beach work to prove he was in good shape and disprove a rumor.

But in recent years the iron man's innards have developed a little rust. Quietly he slipped in and out of Georgetown University Hospital. Stealthily he consulted doctors and heeded them far more than he did his lawyers.

But the other day the terrible - tempered Teamsters' chief's ulcers betrayed him on the inside as he fears every man will on the outside. There was massive bleeding, it was reported. But why now?

Virtually all of Hoffa's counter - offensives against the government have failed.

Hoffa, doing what comes naturally, had gone for the jugular. He has not counted heavily on the appeals court or even the Supreme bench to keep him free of prison terms stretching onto 13 years. With the imagination and the abundance of daring which could have made him the world's powerful labor leader, Hoffa long ago decided to smash the opposition at its source -- right inside the Justice Dept.

Little of this behind-the-scenes campaign has reached the public. Methodically, Hoffa pressured Congressmen into calling for a probe of the attorney General and the Department itself.

Considerable sums were spent through the Teamsters' political machine. Documents were prepared, massive "evidence" was compiled. Material which would have taken any Congressional office months to gather was packaged and put in the hands of House members friendly to the Teamsters.

Some 25 Congressmen were lined up for the offensive. At this writing, 13 of them publicly have attacked the Justice Dept.

Almost all of them zeroed in on the Department's use of a big, tough, muscled Teamster with a grim sheet (record) in the police files of his home city, Baton Rouge, La. He is Ed Partin. His background would delight a criminologist's study in the psychiatry of violence.

Hoffa, of course, had been intimately aware of Partin's

character when he had summoned - the Baton Rouge Teamsters' official to his side during the Chattanooga jury-tampering trial.

But Partin double-crossed him and testified for the government.

As every District Attorney knows, the use of such men as Partin is standard operating procedure for prosecution wherever it is fortunate enough to penetrate the defendant's camp.

But along came Congressmen from New York, Ohio, Pa., and Texas, amongst other states, and blasted the Justice Dept. In the lead was Rep. Kenneth Gray of Illinois. He denounced the Justice Dept. for making a deal. He was followed by other solons who used his long analysis. They resorted to such words as "bribe", throwing a "protective cloak" over a criminal, "tender solicitude," etc.

They demanded an investigation of the Justice Dept. From the indignation of the Congressional friends of Hoffa, one would have thought that Betsy Ross' gray head and star-studded creation had been desecrated. Hoffa did think he would have the entire case reworked by a Congressional committee under TV lights and the coverage by hundreds of newsmen.

All this as the Supreme Court and the appeals benches were considering his bids.

He was elated when he learned there would be an investigation of the Justice Dept. by the House Judiciary Committee.

"It could come day reach into the Hoffa case," said Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler. "But until his appeals have been definitely concluded, I won't touch the case with a hundred-foot pole."

As for the Congressmen, they've lost their enthusiasm, too.

"Some Teamster locals in my district brought the matter to my attention," Rep. Gray told this newsmen. "I did my duty as a citizen. I reported the matter to the Congress. Now I'm finished with it. I don't intend to do anything about it."

"It's not my responsibility to ride herd on the Justice Dept. I am too busy. My other committee is planning a permanent home for the Vice President. So you see I can't follow the Hoffa thing through, nor do I intend to do anything more about it."

COMO LAWRENCE GORME STAR AT DUQUOIN FAIR DU QUOIN, Illinois -- Singers Perry Como, Steve Lawrence and Edie Gorme will headline stage shows at this year's Du Quoin Star Fair, according to Don M. Hayes, Fair president.

Como will not only head a special one-night-only show on Labor Day, Hayes said, but will also act as master of ceremonies. Lawrence and Edie Gorme will co-star during the week-night stage show which will run the seven nights preceding Labor Day. Lawrence will also emcee this show.

"This looks like a terrific year at Du Quoin in just about every way," Hayes said. "The Fair will start on Saturday this year, August 27, and we're featuring two entirely different Grand Ole Opry Shows on opening Saturday and Sunday nights. There will be free gate admission and free parking at all times throughout this year's Fair, and the Hambletonian on August 31 might well set new records. Undoubtedly it all adds up to the biggest entertainment package we've ever had at Du Quoin."

Vitamin Retention Neither thiamine (vitamin B<sub>1</sub>) nor riboflavin can be stored by the body in any quantity, so foods rich in them should be eaten daily. Liver is the best natural source of riboflavin while pork and pork sausage are best "natural" for thiamine.

Both of these vitamins are water soluble. This means they lose a lot of their punch when cooked in liquid. What's the remedy? Use the liquid in which they're cooked for soups, sauces or gravy!

Food Prices Still Climbing

By SALLY RYAN NEW YORK AP -- Pork is precious and beef is booming. So home economists are advising shoppers to choose less popular, cheaper variety cuts such as liver, heart and tongue. Word from the cattlemen is hardly encouraging.

John H. Gaurier of Porterville, Calif., told the American National Cattlemen's Association convention in Kansas City this week beef was going to be more scarce and more expensive.

He said although 5 per cent more beef was slaughtered last year, it provided 3 per cent less meat because there was less fattening of the animals at feedlots.

Pork prices have touched the highest point in 17 years, and run into consumer resistance. Housewives used chicken instead, then the supply of chickens dwindled and prices rose. It is not only meat prices that are up.

The federal government has started selling surplus corn in an attempt to hold prices down. Production of honey, tomato juice and canned peaches and pears all have been down, increasing the price squeeze.

With all of this, the Department of Agriculture predicts the nation's food bill this year will reach $6 billion-$439 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Fashions Have Many Looks

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON PARIS AP -- Christian Dior's designer Marc Bohan believes in tiers for spring-brief jackets over long overblouses over straight skirts. Or he likes swinging-backed coats over straight-line tunic dresses. There are also shades of the Roaring '20s in the collection Dior showed today.

But neither the tiers nor the flat bosoms nor the waistless shifts were cause for husband's tears.

The Dior house, which in the past has wrecked clothing budgets because of the ups and downs of the hemlines or the ins and outs of waists, offered refreshing changes and beautiful Mexican-inspired printed fabrics. But there was not the sweeping fashion revolution which Bohan had hinted at earlier.

Hemlines topped the kneecap. Tube skirts split in front were worn with blouses similarly split in front and bright printed scarfs. Shoulders were narrow and the sleeves were set in tight jackets topped hip-length overblouses, over slim skirts.

The dresses with the most Roaring '20s influence were those with midriff bands dropped low, with the bodice pleated or softly bloused above, and with flouncy pleats in what was left of the short skirt. Columnar coats in heavy silk and luscious pastels wrapped around beaded halterneck costumes with criss-cross bare backs. The jeweled ring collar served both dress and coat. Wavy tentlike chiffons fluttered over tight beaded sliplike sheaths.

Cashiers Attend Study Meeting

Vernon Anderson, Mrs. Lorita Brown, Mrs. Mary Etta Miles and Mrs. Viola Shuffitt were in Blytheville, Ark., last week attending a study meeting of Associated Natural Gas Company cashiers.

The group was taken on a tour of the company's general office and the central billing department, where they inspected equipment used to prepare monthly statements.

John Lawrence, Mrs. Marcella Layton and Mrs. Margaret Thomas will attend a similar type of meeting this week.

In our parish, our 3rd Order members take turns selecting the intention we are praying for at each meeting. The conversion of Russia, peace, the intentions of the Pope, are all popular intentions.

But one evening a newcomer provided a twist. "For the intentions of Russia," she nervously stammered out.

Fellowship Has Meet Thursday

MATTHEWS -- The Christian Women's Fellowship met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Joe Silverthorn. Twelve members and two guests, Mrs. Ernest Springs and Mrs. C. O. Hawkins, were present. "In Quest of God's Power" by Charles L. Allen was the title of an inspirational book reviewed by the program chairman, Mrs. R. L. Richards.

Four of the most common obstacles cited which hinder Christian service are self-pity, false pride, martyr complex, and inferiority complex.

Mrs. M. H. Radcliffe reviewed the first session of the mission study book, "Realms of Our Calling" by Howard Grimes. Vocabulary needed for understanding the theme, "Mission: The Christian's Calling" was presented in scriptural reference by several members.

Mrs. Lester King led the devotional with Mrs. Frank Ratcliff serving as accompanist. During the business session a committee was appointed to take inventory of the church kitchen equipment and tableware. Members will select from the list items for a shower to be given when the remodeling is completed.

Several men of the church congregation have been working the past two weeks on the remodeling and rearrangement which will expedite the serving of food and make more efficient use of the available space. ## Sylvia Caduff Realizes Her Dream - Conducting Symphony Orchestras

By JOY MILLER AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK AP -- Everybody tried to talk Sylvia Caduff out of her dream of conducting symphony orchestras.

A woman looks ungainly on a podium, they told her in her home town of Chur, Switzerland.

How could she get the men in the orchestra to take her direction, asked friends in Lucerne where she was studying piano. What audience would treat her seriously?

As a clincher they always ended triumphantly: Name just one woman conductor on the staff of a major symphony orchestra.

Now the slim brunette, with an answer, Sylvia Caduff, has the New York Philharmonic, an assistant conductor to Leonard Bernstein.

"I'm so happy, so happy," she says, which just about takes care of her working English vocabulary at the moment. She hopes to be proficient, through, by next fall when her stint in New York begins.

Sylvia, 28, was a piano teacher in Lucerne—a fine profession for a woman, everybody thought—until she came to New York early in January for the Dimitri Mitropoulos International Competition.

"I brought my little fur lion along," she said through an interpreter. "I had it with me when I was studying conducting in Berlin at the conservatory and with Herbert von Karajan from 1962-64. I think it brings me luck."

She also carried the baton she had used in reaching the finals in a couple of international conducting competitions in Italy and Denmark. She would rather borrow someone's toothbrush than use her own baton.

The Mitropoulos competition started with 34 contestants from 18 countries, including two women—Sylvia and one from Peru.

Only Sylvia and six young men survived the finals, in Carnegie Hall before a capacity crowd.

After the jury of distinguished conductors made their decisions Jan. 17, Bernstein announced the results. Sylvia was one of the four first-place winners.

Two nights later, after the four conducted the New York Philharmonic in Philharmonic Hall, Bernstein announced their new posts: Three, including Sylvia, would assist him with the Philharmonic next season, the fourth would go to Washington's National Symphony.

Next fall Sylvia should brighten the New York music scene considerably. She rarely uses makeup, and with her 5-foot-4 boyishly slim figure, brown eyes and dark hair cut in a short pageboy, she could be called winsomely cute -- a description that would horrify her if she understood it in English.

She is an intense, no-nonsense, talented professional—from the expert way she handles the baton. "You use it as an extension of the arm, in the right hand for tempo; the left hand is for expression" to her demure long black dress, purposefully unobtrusive so as not to distract from the orchestra and music.

While some masculine conductors may stomp, gyrate and flail the air, Sylvia maintains an easy graceful stance.

Although she gets along fine with male colleagues, she's not overly eager to get married right away.

"I'm always in love," she says. But she's not engaged.

COMO • LAWRENCE • GORME

STAR AT DUQUOIN FAIR
DU QUOIN, Illinois -- Singers Ferry Gorme, Steve Lawrence and Edie Gorme will headline stage shows at this year's Du Quoin Star Fair, according to Don M. Hayes, Fair president.

Come will not only head a special one - night - only show on Labor Day, Hayes said, but will also act as master of ceremonies. Lawrence and Edie Gorme will co - star during the week - night stage show which will run the seven nights preceding Labor Day. Lawrence will also emcee this show.

"This looks like a terrific year at Du Quoin in just about every way," Hayes said. "The Fair will start on Saturday this year, August 27, and we're featuring two entirely different Grand Ole Opry Shows on opening Saturday and Sunday nights. There will be free gate admission and free parking at all times throughout this year's Fair, and the Hambletonian on August 31 might well set new records. Undoubtedly it all adds up to the biggest entertainment package we've ever had at DuQuoin."

Vitamin Retention

Neither thiamine (vitamin B<sub>1</sub>) nor riboflavin can be stored by the body in any quantity, so foods rich in them should be eaten daily. Liver is the best natural source of riboflavin while pork and pork sausage are best "natural" for thiamine. Both of these vitamins are water soluble. This means they lose a lot of their punch when cooked in liquid. What's the remedy? Use the liquid in which they're cooked for soups, sauces or gravy!

Several men of the church congregation have been working the past two weeks on the remodeling and rearrangement which will expedite the serving of food and make more efficient use of the available space. New facilities include an additional stove and double sink, new steel cabinets, 12 new dining tables, and tile ceiling.

As a clincher they always ended triumphantly: Name just one woman conductor on the staff of a major symphony orchestra.

Now the slim brunette has an answer: Sylvia Caduff, with the New York Philharmonic, an assistant conductor to Leonard Bernstein.

"I'm so happy, so happy," she says, which just about takes care of her working English vocabulary at the moment. She hopes to be proficient, through, by next fall when her stint in New York begins.

Sylvia, 28, was a piano teacher in Lucerne--a fine profession for a woman, everybody thought--until she came to New York early in January for the Dimitri Mitropoulos International Competition.

"I brought my little fur lion along," she said through an interpreter. "I had it with me when I was studying conducting in Berlin at the conservatory and with Herbert von Karajan from 1962-64. I think it brings me luck."

She also carried the baton she had used in reaching the finals in a couple of international conducting competitions in Italy and Denmark. She would rather borrow someone's toothbrush than use another baton.

The Mitropoulos competition started with 34 contestants from 18 countries, including two women--Sylvia and one from Peru.

Only Sylvia and six young men survived the finals, in Carnegie Hall before a capacity crowd.

After the jury of distinguished conductors made their decisions Jan. 17, Bernstein announced the results. Sylvia was one of the four first - place winners.

Two nights later, after the four conducted the New York Philharmonic in Philharmonic Hall, Bernstein announced their new posts: Three, including Sylvia, would assist him with the Philharmonic next season, the fourth would go to Washington's National Symphony.

Next fall Sylvia should brighten the New York music scene considerably. She rarely uses makeup, and with her 5-foot-4 boyishly slim figure, brown

Sylvia Caduff Realizes Her Dream - Conducting Symphony Orchestras

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK AP -- Everybody tried to talk Sylvia Caduff out of her dream of conducting symphony orchestras.

A woman looks ungainly on a podium, they told her in her home town of Chur, Switzerland.

How could she get the men in the orchestra to take her direction, asked friends in Lucerne where she was studying piano. What audience would treat her seriously?

As a clincher they always ended triumphantly: Name just one woman conductor on the staff of a major symphony orchestra.

Now the slim brunette has an answer: Sylvia Caduff, with the New York Philharmonic, an assistant conductor to Leonard Bernstein.

"I'm so happy, so happy," she says, which just about takes care of her working English vocabulary at the moment. She hopes to be proficient, through, by next fall when her stint in New York begins.

Bloomfield Moves Into Finals, Dexter And Puxico Clash Tonight, For Birth In Finals

Richland "B" Moves Into Finals

BLOOMFIELD -- Richland's "B" squad and Bloomfield's "A" squad advanced last night into the finals of the Stoddard County Conference tournament which will be played Saturday night.

In the first game of the night Richland's junior varsity squad who are unbeaten this year had to fight back after falling behind the first period 11-8, Richland turned on the steam the second quarter and out-scored their opponents 21-6 the second period to take a half-time edge of 29-17.

As the third period opened Dexter wheeled off three straight baskets and closed the margin to only 29-23. At the end of the third period Dexter had closed the gap to only two points and had a chance to go ahead several times but made floor mistakes that gave the ball over to Richland.

Richland finally came into their own at the closing minutes of the game and won rather handily.

In the clash between Bloomfield and Richland the game was close throughout.

Richland scored the first basket and led at that moment of play before Bloomfield and their wheel-horse team began to click, as they clicked into a 13-9 first period lead.

Richland, playing a much better ball game than they have in recent games, seemed to be up to their potential, and will have a slow strength the rest of the year.

Mike Wise was the big man for the Wildcats as he collected 14 points. Mike fouled out with six seconds remaining in the game.

Richland's man of the game was big center Wayne Early, who collected 14 points and fouled out after one minute and 46 seconds gone in the third period. Wayne played a fine ball game after he got adjusted to his defensive man, Mike Wise.

Both teams played fine ball games, as each player on each team contributed to their team's fine showing.

This game featured two of the top centers in the district, as both boys played fine ball games.

Tonight's action will find Dexter and Puxico fighting it out to see who plays Saturday night, this is in "A" game action.

In "B" game action tonight Bernie and Bloomfield clash.

New Game Agent For Sikeston Area

MINNEAPOLIS -- Harland M. Morgan, game management agent for the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife at Evansville, Ind., will transfer to Sikeston, Mo., about March 1.

Morgan will replace Morgan Wilson, who retired recently as federal game management agent at Sikeston.

Prior to joining the Bureau in 1951, Morgan served the Missouri Conservation Commission as a wildlife conservation agent for nearly five years.

A native of south central Missouri, he served as an aviation ordnance man in the Navy during World War II.

He received his formal education at Central Missouri State College where he majored in biology and agriculture.

Morgan was stationed at Scottsbluff, Nebraska, as a federal agent before being transferred to Evansville.

The Morgan family expects to establish residence at Sikeston about March 1.

Morgan will be responsible for enforcing federal wildlife conservation laws and will also participate in other wildlife management practices including surveys of migratory birds on their breeding grounds in the U.S. and Canada and on their wintering grounds in this country and in Mexico.

Other duties include investigations of and action on disease and poison occurrences, depredations to agricultural crops, issuance of migratory bird permits of various kinds, plus information and education work with youth and adult groups.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The United States is one of the great civilizations in the history of human life on our planet. Why have we developed to this extent and what is especially significant in our particular way of life?

It is true that we have a more than adequate supply of consumer goods and services, plenty of money to buy these things, the technological "know-how" to mass produce the goods and services which we consume. There is an automobile for every three persons in the United States, 94 per cent of our homes have water piped into them, our scientists lead the world in accomplishments, we have tremendous natural resources and we maintain a free economic system. We are governed by democratic process in which all may participate. But, perhaps the most remarkable feature, and the one which has unquestionably made possible our place in the world's civilizations, is our system of public education. Our best schools are as good as those found anywhere, but the most unique feature of American education is that our young people, as a whole, are offered more years of schooling than are made available to students in other countries. Except for those youth who do not wish to go to school at this level, we have achieved universal secondary education; the rest of the world has not. We are in a process now in which it appears that community colleges may be available to practically every youth in America who has the desire to attend and the ability to profit and he can do within commuting distance of his own home. We once looked to England and Europe for leadership in education. Now these countries and most of the rest of the world look to us.

Today almost a third of our population are involved as students, teachers, administrators or school board members—in this huge educational enterprise. We would expect such a big operation to be expensive. It is. But, the benefits which we get, because we believe in educating our people, in most cases to the limit of their ability to learn, are so tremendous that we cannot afford to do anything but to improve and to expand educational opportunities for our citizens.

Hot, nutritious noon day meals are provided for our children at extremely low prices because of certain features of the National School Lunch Program. Usually schools are furnished some surplus agricultural food products, at no cost to the school. These products are made available through the government price support program designed to bolster farm income and to maintain stable prices.

In the past these surplus foods have been in very considerable amounts but as general farm product prices go up to a relatively high level, as they are now, there is not so much reason to siphon off the surplus in order to maintain support prices. Consequently, we are getting less in the way of surplus foods. This has been a big item in our budget, allowing us to keep the cost of the meals to the students as low as we have. Last year, figured at normal cost, we received approximately $38,000 worth of surplus food from the government. This year it has decreased by almost a third, meaning a net loss in income of about $12,000. Last year we ended the season with a book balance of approximately $2,000. Because of the lessening of government provided surplus foods, it appears that we will end this year's school food service program with red ink. We do not like to increase the cost of the meals as some of our students, coming from extremely low income families, have difficulty in paying even the present low cost. However, unless we can find the funds to subsidize this program to some extent, as we possibly may, a price rise in the future may be required.

While it is too early to gauge the success of our Teacher Aide Program, we will make a cautious and optimistic observation that it will result in much improved learning opportunities for our students. We are impressed with the enthusiasm of the teacher aides, their ideas for improvement and their willingness to work in performing those necessary but non-teaching tasks, which heretofore took away from the teachers time for actual instruction. Our teachers now will have more time to do the thing for which they best prepared, and which is the only reason for the existence of this or any school, that being to teach children.

Later we hope to have more objective measures to judge the success of the Teacher Aide Program but, we predict that it will be good.

Missouri's position in financially supporting public schools in comparison to other states has gotten worse in the past year as other states are making greater gains than we are. The current expenditure per pupil in average daily attendance for 1965-66 in Missouri is $471 while the national average is $533. Because of a low tax base per pupil, here in Sikeston, we are even below the state average by almost $11 as our cost for the past school year per student in average daily attendance was $361, thus putting us $172 below the national average. The average salary of the instructional staff in Missouri schools is $789 below the national average.

All things being equal, this obviously means that Missouri children are not getting the quality of education that is available to students in neighboring states and to the nation as a whole.

If Missouri were a poor state we might have some justification for slighting our children. It isn't though and on the basis of per capita income, as reported by the United States Department of Commerce, Missouri was seventeenth among the fifty states in 1964 and thirteenth among the states on the basis of income per pupil enrolled in our elementary and secondary schools. We are not heavily taxed at the state level and thirty-five state levy higher state taxes than does Missouri. Neither are we heavily taxed on the basis of combined state and local taxes as only Delaware and Alaska had lower combined state and local taxes than did Missouri last year.

It is high time that our General Assembly make massive improvements in financing Missouri's schools at the state level.

Steve McNamara reports with some disgust that he was just settling down in the paternity room in a San Francisco hospital to count the holes in the acoustical ceiling, the openings in the light fixtures, etc., while waiting for his wife to deliver, when he noticed a piece of paper stuck to the wall by some killjoy. It advised: "1035 holes in each tile; 510 squares in each light; 16 screws in each fixture."

Patience is not passive; on the contrary it is active; it is concentrated strength. —Bulwer-Lytton

It reads: "My kitty was wild, I named him Tommy. Now he's gentle 'cause he's a mommy!"

ALMADEN, Spain (AP) — Spain's economic development program seems to be having an effect here. Farmer Vincente Castellanos reported harvesting a clove of garlic which weighed seven ounces.

LA PORTE, Iowa (AP) — Police Chief Harold Burch stopped to help a motorist whose car had overheated and stalled. They were putting water in the radiator when Burch heard on his police car radio the report of a car stolen in nearby Waterloo.

Burch checked the license number of the car on which he was working. It was the one reported stolen. He arrested the motorist.

Lively Campaign Over Viet Nam

HULL, England (AP) — Two election posters peered out from Mr. and Mrs. Barry Nicholson's third-floor walkup apartment across the street from local labor party headquarters.

In the living room window, Nicholson's poster reads: "Kevin McNamara — vote Labor."

Mrs. Nicholson's poster shouts back from the kitchen window: "Vote Richard Gott — end the war in Viet Nam."

Nicholson, a lab technician at Hull University, told a reporter: "We both like Gott. But I don't like his tactics, and she does. He may bring down the government. We're split."

The Nicholson's domestic political disagreement, if multiplied by only a few hundred of Hull's voters could indeed bring an end to Britain's Labor government. A Labor defeat in Thursday's special parliamentary election would send Prime Minister Harold Wilson's House of Commons majority down to the absolute minimum of one vote and might force a new general election.

It also would send Conservative morale skyrocketing after a winter of party feuds.

Henry Solomons, the Labor member who died last November, wrested the Hull seat from the Conservatives at the last election by a margin of 1,181 votes. That margin now is hanging by a thread, which could be snapped by such imponderables as a snowstorm on polling day, a 15 per cent rise in local property taxes announced only this week, or the immediately recognizable red beard of Richard Gott.

Gott, 27, a London journalist, has quit the Labor party to run as a candidate of a group calling itself the Radical Alliance, and he doesn't care if the shaves away enough Labor votes to bring Labor down.

He acknowledges a political kinship with the peace demonstrators in the United States, and his single platform plank is a protest against Wilson's support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Only the voting will tell how many supporters Gott has unearthed behind smoke-blackened brick facades of the dock and transport workers' houses.

He thinks there may be as many as a thousand, which would satisfy Gott and probably ruin Labor.

Hull has a radical tradition, dating from its opposition to the king in the 17th century civil war. It was prominent in the 19th century campaign against slavery and for a hundred years it has been a center of militant unionism. Gott thus is plowing fertile ground.

While oldsters and confirmed Labor voters regard him as something between a nuisance and a menace, he seems to be finding a sympathetic audience among women and the young.

Some, like Nicholson, are not ready to vote against Labor. But they may abstain.

One housewife told Gott: "I'm so red I'm inflamed. We are fed up with the government. It's not really Labor at all."

Labor's candidate, Kevin McNamara, 31, a Hull law instructor with iron-gray hair and a reticent manner, follows the party line to the letter and stays clear of emotional debate on Viet Nam.

He has refused even to talk about Gott and has campaigned solely on Labor's long-range domestic policy of improved welfare, voluntary wage and price restraint, and national economic planning.

This presents its own problems, especially when Toby Jessel, the Conservative candidate, assails Labor for rising taxes and prices. Jessel's line is that Hull can become Britain's gateway to Europe if the nation follows the Conservative lead and makes another bid to enter the European Common Market.

The Liberal candidate, Laurie Millward, a housewife and Hull city councillor, follows her own party's pro-European program. She demands more roads and industrial development for Hull, which is out in East Yorkshire on the Humber estuary and literally at the end of the railroad line.

These domestic questions probably will have the most influence on the mass of voters who have been turning up for the campaign rallies in record crowds.

The combination of high interest, typical issues and hunger on the left makes this a test-tube election for Britain.

Although Labor started its campaign late — some voters even thought Gott was the regular Labor candidate at first — it has now organized its canvassers and combed the district twice over for supporters.

Jessel, 31, a London businessman and former navy officer, runs from house to house shaking as many hands as he can while a team of six pretty girls goes on ahead to get the voters on their doorsteps. His strategy is to make himself known to every potential Conservative voter and then hold on to them and coast to victory while Labor splits.

Two unknowns also are running. They are Kelvin Woodburn, the World Government candidate; and Russell Eckley, who claims from the "Legions of God." Even Eckley's candidacy could make a difference. He is alphabetically first on the ballot and that's usually worth at least 50 to 100 votes.

Circulatory problems, injuries and infections can do and affect the fingernails of both men and women. But one nail condition -- horizontal splitting -- is found more often in women than men, reports Dr. L. F. Ray of Portland, Ore. For two reasons, the doctor explains:

Because the ladies often use an acetone nail polish remover. And because housewives frequently have their hands in water, using alkaline cleaning solutions which can cause nail damage.

Recommended solutions: Change your polish remover and wheedle your husband and children into sharing the washing chores.

BIRTH CONTROL PILL SEEMS TO CONTROL BALDNESS

An orally unexpected benefit of oral contraception was reported recently by Royal Air Force physician M. G. P. Fisher. Dr. Fisher says that "the pill" apparently caused hair to grow on a bald spot of one of his women patients.

The 32-year-old woman had lost all her hair at the age of three or four following an asthma attack. Although the hair eventually grew back, from that time on she suffered from patchy bald spots. Treatment with massage, sun rays, stimulating lotions were largely without benefit, the doctor noted.

Only during pregnancy did the baldness disappear entirely; but it reappeared three or four months after each delivery. Wishing to limit the size of her family, following the birth of her third child, the patient, on the advice of Dr. Fisher, began to take birth control pills. Six weeks later, hair began to grow on the bald patches. Four months later "satisfactory regrowth was established, and maintained for a further eight months," after which time the doctor lost track of the patient.

The physician's experience was published in a recent issue of the British Medical Journal. HEELS BANISH ACHING BACK

"I have found that some women when they are pregnant wear flat shoes rather than shoes with heels which they normally wear. These women frequently complain of backache and referred pain down the back of their legs. As soon as they resume wearing heels these symptoms leave." This observation was made by Dr. Harry Fields, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, at a recent meeting here.

Dr. Fields also pointed out that the pressure of the growing uterus sometimes causes back pain, as does the increasing weight of the baby which alters posture. Postural changes can cause backache.

No Longer Tom's Place

KANSAS CITY, AP -- A portrait of the late Tom J. Pendergast and all references to the onetime Democratic political boss of Kansas City were removed today from The Place, a restaurant and tavern on Westport Road.

The picture of Pendergast hung in a room at the rear of the establishment, known as "Big Tom's." It was decorated in the style of a speak-easy.

Pendergast's son, Thomas J. Pendergast Jr., filed suit last Dec. 23 against "The Place," seeking $500,000 in damages and an injunction enjoining the tavern from using the portrait and family name. It claimed the use of the picture and the name constituted invasion of privacy.

Ken Hill and Joe Falk, owners of the tavern and eating place, removed the picture and other references today after a conference with attorneys for Pendergast.

Remaining on the walls of The Place are pictures of former President Harry S. Truman; William Rockhill Nelson, founder of the Kansas City Star; Tom Bash, onetime sheriff of Jackson County and Kirby McRill, a bearded character well-known in the downtown section of the city in the 20s and 30s.

The Medal of Honor is usually presented by the President, acting in behalf of Congress. It is sometimes referred to as the Congressional Medal and was created over 100 years ago to honor Union soldiers in the Civil War. It has been awarded 2,194 times.

Lyndon B. Johnson is the 36th President.

Pray one for another - (James 5:16)

If there is someone we wish to see made whole and perfect, in need of prosperity, success or happiness? Is there someone we wish to see exercise wisdom and good judgment in conducting his affairs? What ever need another person may have, we pray for him. We pray knowing that God is present and works unceasingly in and through the one for whom we pray.

ANN LANDERS

Problems

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the letter from the ex-convict who couldn't get a job because of his past I decided that he and I have a lot in common. I am an ex-con, but I can't get a job because I'm 1-A in the draft.

I have tried to find work for several months, but everywhere
I go I get the same thing,
"Sorry, it costs a lot to train a man. You'd be called into the service just about the time we could make use of you. We can't take a chance."

I can take a chance in Viet Nam, but business can't take a chance on me.
My parents spent a lot of money to put me through college and they are far from rich. Now I want to pay them back, but I can't even support myself myself because business "can't take a chance."
The boys in my group are getting a lousy deal. What can we do about it? -- UNEM-PLOYABLE

Dear Unemployable: I agree
it's a rough go and damned unfair. But who ever said life was fair? If I were you I'd sign up and get my service over with.
Dear Ann Landers: I am teased off at the person who wrote to you and said, "Please don't suggest volunteer work for high - strung, disturbed females. Crazy, mixed up dames need therapy not volunteer work. They are a pain in the neck to the woman who must train them. Please send those disturbed females to psychiatrists, not to us."

If the volunteer workers are putting in the time because they need to keep busy or because they need to feel that they are helping someone who is worse off than they are, what's wrong with that? In our city there are dozens of society women who do volunteer work because they want to get their pictures in the paper. Print this if you have the courage. -- "DISTURBED"

VOLUNTEER
Dear D. V.: I especially appreciated your letter because I was one of those "crazy, mixed up dames" who accumulated more than 5,000
hours of Red Cross Gray Lady service before I became
Ann Landers.

The next letter is from Mrs.
R. J. L., director of volunteers at one of Chicago's largest hospitals:

"Some of the finest volunteers were in a very disturbed state when they came to be interviewed. In the process of regaining their confidence they have given invaluable service to patients, staff and employees. Everyone benefits.
"Who among us has not been disturbed at some time in our lives? Only those who die in infancy, that's who. -- R.J.L."

Dear Ann Landers: I work six days a week and so does my wife. I help her with the housework and never gripe about it.
I figure she helps me by adding to the family income so I should pitch in and give her a hand at home.

Here's the problem: My wife insists that I accompany her on shopping expeditions on my day off. I don't think this is fair.
We argue about it every Saturday. Usually I lose. Shouldn't a man be free to play golf or go to a ball game or just loaf around the house one day a week? My wife believes in total togetherness and says I am wrong. Am I? -- VA PROBLEMS

Dear Va.: No. She's wrong.
If your wife can't decide between the blue dress or the green dress, suggest that she bring them both home on approval.
Too many starchy-eyed lovers do not know the difference.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

Restore to me the joy of thy salvation and uphold me with a willing spirit. Then I will teach transgressors thy ways, and sinners will return to thee.
(Psalm 51:12-13, RV)

PRAYER: Help us, O Lord, to witness for Christ by our daily life and by the words we speak. Give us the insight to know when to speak and the courage to speak. In Jesus' name, Amen.

When I am but a grinning skull,
And shriveling flesh on mod-dering bone;
If above me is placed a stone;
What words should be writ?
Sculpt me no cherubim nor mourning dove,
Write only this:
He Loved. --Gerald Baggett

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Arthur arrived in Sikeston Wednesday from the state of Oregon, where they have been living. After a short visit with home-folks, they will go to Poplar Bluff, where they will locate. Our neighboring city of Morleyhouse came over last Friday night and showed us a few tricks in the art of basketball. The Morleyhouse boys hung the short end of a 23-6 score on the Bulldogs. The Morleyhouse Misses trimmed our Lady Bulldogs, 40-2.

One of the Standard employees came to work Monday morning wearing a set of store teeth, which reminded us of the story of a man who had to take his teeth out when he went to eat. He was asked the reason and said they didn't fit any too good. Asked why he didn't take them back to the dentist and have him work on them, said he had purchased them from an undertaker and not a dentist.

The boys in my group are getting a lousy deal. What can we do about it? -- UNEMPLOYABLE

Dear Unemployable: I agree it's a rough go and darned unfair. But who ever said life was fair? If I were you I'd sign up and get my service over with.

Dear Ann Landers: I am teed off at the person who wrote to you and said, "Please don't suggest volunteer work for high - strung, disturbed females. Crazy, mixed up dames need therapy not volunteer work. They are a pain in the neck to the woman who must train them. Please send those disturbed females to psychiatrists, not to us."

If the volunteer workers are putting in the time because they need to keep busy or because they need to feel that they are helping someone who is worse off than they are, what's wrong with that? In our city there are dozens of society women who do volunteer work because they want to get their pictures in the paper. Print this if you have the courage. -- "DISTURBED" VOLUNTEER

Dear D. V.: I especially appreciated your letter because I was one of those "crazy, mixed up dames" who accumulated more than 5,000 hours of Red Cross Gray Lady service before I became Ann Landers.

The next letter is from Mrs. R. J. L., director of volunteers at one of Chicago's largest hospitals:

"Some of the finest volunteers were in a very disturbed state when they came to be interviewed. In the process of regaining their confidence they have given invaluable service to patients, staff and employees. Everyone benefits."

"Who among us has not been disturbed at some time in our lives? Only those who die in infancy, that's who. -- R. J. L."

Dear Ann Landers: I work six days a week and so does my wife. I help her with the housework and never gripe about it. I figure she helps me by adding to the family income so I should pitch in and give her a hand at home.

Here's the problem: My wife insists that I accompany her on shopping expeditions on my day off. I don't think this is fair. We argue about it every Saturday. Usually I lose. Shouldn't a man be free to play golf or go to a ball game or just loaf around the house one day a week? My wife believes in total togetherness and says I am wrong. Am I? -- VA PROBLEMS

Dear V.: No. She's wrong. If your wife can't decide between the blue dress or the green dress, suggest that she bring them both home on approval. Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

Restore to me the joy of thy salvation and uphold me with a willing spirit. Then I will teach transgressors thy ways, and sinners will return to thee. (Psalm 51:12-13, RSV)

PRAYER: Help us, O Lord, to witness for Christ by our daily life and by the words we speak. Give us the insight to know when to speak and the courage to speak. In Jesus' name. Amen.

When I am but a grinning skull, And shriveling flesh on moderating bone; If above me is placed a stone; What words should be writ? Sculpt me no cherubim nor mourning dove, Write only this: He Loved. --Gerald Baggett

Take Bids For School Building

CHARLESTON -- Bids were received for construction of a high school in Charleston Tuesday. The contract has not been let pending figuring by the board of education on alternate proposals.

The bids appear to be within the funds available, so that the project can move forward. H. H. Sutherland, board president, and Supt. W. R. Pierce Jr., said.

A school of one-story design will be built at the northeast edge of town, on a school-owned tract of 40 acres. The bonds are for $1,400,000, and the district expects an additional $50,000 from the state.

Low base bid was submitted by Gerhardt Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau and the second low bid was by Crites and Sailer, also of Cape Girardeau. The Gerhardt base figure was said to be $702,774 and the Crites and Sailer bid was $706,174.

Clinton Co. of Sikeston had a base bid of $707,800; Smith and Livingston, Poplar Bluff, bid $716,507 and the Boyer Co. of Sikeston submitted $726,038 as base bid.

It was said that these bids, with alternate bids, may show the Clinton Co. has the most attractive bid by about $3,000 with next most favorable bid by Gerhardt.

Officials were still figuring on which bid will be most attractive for the school district.

Electrical base bids for the school were listed as:

Clinton Co., $132,000.
Acme Co., Cape Girardeau, $139,946.
Boyer Co., $142,540.
Hampton Electric Co., St. Louis, $147,390.

Wright Electric Co., Cape Girardeau, $196,478.
Midmouth Co., Memphis, Tenn., $262,225.

Mechanical bids, including the proposed plumbing, heating, air conditioning and ventilation, included:

Clinton Co., $230,000.
Boyer Co., $245,000.
A. E. Birk and Son, Cape Girardeau, $336,000.

Separate plumbing bids also were turned in.

The high school will have 85,000 square feet of space.

Everyone In Show Business

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
A P TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -- It was Billy Rose, if memory serves, who in pretelevision days remarked that everybody had two businesses -- his own and show business.

When an important segment of show business moved into the nation's living rooms, everybody with access to a set became, one way or another, a critic.

Now even the respected publication, Parents Magazine, has gotten into the act. In the current issue, it presents a listing of programs, drawn up by the "evaluation committee" of the National Association for Better Radio and Television, which are recommended for children and another of shows it considered objectionable for children, and even a list of shows of "special interest for adult audiences."

A total of 35 shows -- about one-third of the evening network output -- is given the magazine's stamp of approval. They range from the obvious, like "Captain Kangaroo" and the Walt Disney Hour to some surprising choices, like "Combat" and "12 O'Clock High" but not for young children and "The FBI" but only for those in their teens.

More interesting is the list of 30 shows the committee found objectionable for children. It includes many shows most adults fondly believed were primarily designed for young audiences; "Flipper" -- "Story themes abound in crime and involve youngsters in extremely dangerous situations," "The Adams Family" and "The Munsters" and "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." -- "frightening in its vivid depiction of horror devices and situation."

The article also had some harsh things to say about "Daniel Boone" -- "sometimes uses vicious, sadistic scenes" and even "Bonanza" -- "too violent for youngsters."

"This Proud Land," ABC's series of specials designed to introduce viewers to the beauties and local color of all parts of the nation, hopped, skipped and jumped all over the Southwest -- "the sun country" -- Wednesday night.

This third show of the series is no more satisfying than the first two, primarily because it lacks a point of view and sort of wanders aimlessly around.

Talk Site for Housing Units

MALDEN -- Members of the Housing Authority appeared before the Malden City Council and were granted permission to negotiate with the airport commission on purchase of land in the Malden Industrial Park. The land, east of the Masonic Hall, will be used for the construction of 20 low-rent housing units.

Raymond Santie, chairman, informed the Council that part of another parcel of land already approved as a site for the housing was not available.

He explained that the housing board wanted the council's assurance that the land on the airport would be available when needed before negotiating the price with the airport commission. Santie also explained that after a suitable price is agreed upon with the airport commission it will be presented to the council for final approval.

Neal Wagley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wagley of Matthews, has been promoted from first lieutenant to captain in the air force. He is stationed at Mehlville Air Station, Goose Bay Air Base, Labrador, where he is on duty as a meteorologist.

He received his bachelor's degree in agriculture and an air force commission at the University of Missouri in August of 1962, and began active duty at St. Louis University, where he completed his meteorology degree in August of 1963.

He married the former Dorothy Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stewart, 805 Poplar Drive. Captain and Mrs. Wagley have a son, Ardy and a daughter, Debbie.

Two Schools Check on Lung Disease

PORTAGEVILLE -- The health department, in cooperation with the public schools, will conduct a study to determine how many children in Portageville have a fungus infection known as histoplasmosis.

The infection occurs when the spores of the fungus are inhaled into the lungs.

The disease is transmitted from bird droppings. Histoplasmosis is usually a mild disease and causes no symptoms in many persons.

In persons who do have symptoms, the illness varies from something like the flu to pneumonia.

Most people recover in a short time without treatment.

There is a simple skin test which shows whether or not a person has had the infection. Such a skin test will be offered free to children in the Portageville Schools on Feb. 1. Skin testing for histoplasmosis will also be conducted in the Caruthersville schools.

Recent studies have shown that the fungus, which causes histoplasmosis, is growing in the soil under a starling roost in Caruthersville.

The testing program in Portageville will serve as a method to help evaluate the Caruthersville tests.

STRING FOR SPRING

Rushing the season a bit, London model Angela Harvey shows off a white string swimsuit which will be showing up in shops in the spring and, presumably, on the beaches not long after.

CHARLESTON -- Bids were received for construction of a high school in Charleston Tuesday. The contract has not been let pending figuring by the board of education on alternate proposals.

The bids appear to be within the funds available, so that the project can move forward, H. H. Sutherland, board president, and Supt. W. R. Pierce Jr., said.

A school of one-story design will be built at the northeast edge of town, on a school-owned tract of 40 acres. The bonds are for $1,400,000, and the district expects an additional $50,000 from the state.

Low base bid was submitted by Gerhardt Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau and the second low bid was by Crites and Sailer, also of Cape Girardeau. The Gerhardt base figure was said to be $702,774 and the Crites and Sailer bid was $706,175.

Clinton Co. of Sikeston had a base bid of $707,800; Smith and Livingston, Poplar Bluff, bid $716,507 and the Boyer Co. of Sikeston submitted $726,058 as base bid.

It was said that these bids, with alternate bids, may show the Clinton Co. has the most attractive bid by about $3,000 with next most favorable bid by Gerhardt.

Officials were still figuring on which bid will be most attractive for the school district.

Electrical base bids for the school were listed as:

Clinton Co., $132,000.

Ame Co., Cape Girardeau, $139,946.

Boyer Co., $142,540.

Boyer Co., $245,000.

A. E. Birk and Son, Cape Girardeau, $336,000.

Separate plumbing bids also were turned in.

Two Schools Check on Lung Disease

PORTAGEVILLE -- The health department, in cooperation with the public schools, will conduct a study to determine how many children in Portageville have a fungus infection known as histoplasmosis.

The infection occurs when the spores of the fungus are inhaled into the lungs.

The disease is transmitted from bird droppings. Histoplasmosis is usually a mild disease and causes no symptoms in many persons.

In persons who do have symptoms, the illness varies from something like the flu to pneumonia.

Most people recover in a short time without treatment.

There is a simple skin test which shows whether or not a person has had the infection.

Such a skin test will be offered free to children in the Portageville Schools on Feb. 1.

Skin testing for histoplasmosis will also be conducted in the Caruthersville schools.

Recent studies have shown that the fungus, which causes histoplasmosis, is growing in the soil under a starling roost in Caruthersville.

The testing program in Portageville will serve as a method to help evaluate the Caruthersville tests.

Chicagoans Call Police, Reduce Crime in City

CHICAGO (AP) — A housewife looked out a window of her Southwest Side home and saw two men hovering near a garage in the dusk of an autumn evening. She telephoned PO 5-1313.

A police squad, alerted by radio, arrived quickly. The men fled. The officers fired a warning shot, collared them and retrieved the loot from a burglary of a nearby house.

Within a week during the recent Christmas-New Year period, calls from three different persons provided police with information for raids on two lottery games and a house where narcotics were stored on the South Side.

Those are examples of how the Chicago Police Department's "Operation CrimeStop" functions.

Colonialism: Help or Hindrance

WE have frequently made the statement that the colonies of the western powers received much more from the mother countries than these countries took from them, and prospered much more as a result of the liaison with the mother country. Let us look into the subject a little deeper.

At the turn of the century Nigeria had exports and imports amounting to about $2 million each. Nigeria was a so-called British colony until 1960, and its population is 99.5% African. Five years ago when she was granted her independence, imports and exports had risen to nearly $200 million each — a gain of about 10 thousand per cent during 60 years of colonial rule.

The record of Ghana, formerly the Gold Coast, until recently a British colony, shows an increase of exports and imports from about $1 million 60 years ago to $100 million at present. In both countries, there has been a spectacular increase in both consumer and capital goods.

By contrast, Liberia, independent for well over a hundred years, has made no comparable progress. Furthermore, Ethiopia, the oldest free country in Africa, is still greatly retarded in its development and by no means up to the standards achieved in the African countries that have had colonial status. As Mr. Bauer puts it: "The material advance of many African territories (colonies), flatly contradicts the thesis of the vicious circle of poverty and stagnation."

And so, we find Liberia, independent since 1847, and Ethiopia, independent longer than most if not all of the developed countries, with much lower standards of living and more primitive conditions than exist in the so-called deprived and underprivileged countries of Africa that have long had colonial status. We are not pleading for a return to that status, but merely pointing out what we have long contended, that the former colonial peoples derive much benefit from their association with the mother countries, and are much further advanced economically than they would have been had that association not taken place.

Chicagoans Call Police, Reduce Crime in City

CHICAGO (AP) — A housewife looked out a window of her Southwest Side home and saw two men hovering near a garage in the dusk of an autumn evening. She telephoned PO 3-1313.

A police squad, alerted by radio, arrived quickly. The men fled. The officers fired a warning shot, collared them and retrieved the loot from a burglary of a nearby house.

Within a week during the recent Christmas-New Year period, calls from three different persons provided police with information for raids on two lottery games and a house where narcotics were stored on the South Side.

Those are examples of how the Chicago Police Department's "Operation CrimeStop" functions.

Supt. O. W. Wilson started it April 13, 1964, with an appeal to all citizens to report crime or suspicion of crime.

Thousands of calls have been made since then. Phase II of the program, begun in October 1964, is aimed at bringing in organizations, business firms, public utilities and governmental agencies by asking their top officials to pledge the aid of their members and workers.

Phase III, started Jan. 11, seeks cooperation of citizens in cracking down on narcotics, gambling, prostitution and the high-interest loan racket — sources of income for hoodlums and the enduring Chicago crime syndicate.

A similar project called Crime Alert, will be started in Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 1.

GOOD WORD—Delighted Mrs. Maria Verrill, Huntington Beach, Calif., housewife, may share in the estimated $1.3 billion estate of an ancestor, an 18th century Spanish viceroy of Peru—if the money can be found. Heirs claim the money was deposited with a Scottish bank, but the Bank of Scotland says it has no record of the fortune.
